June 20th, 22H00 – FACULDADE DE PSICOLOGIA E CIÊNCIAS DA
EDUCAÇÃO - UP (Auditorium 1)

To be exhibited:

RAPACE (25`) by João Nicolau

“After finishing his MA in Anthropology, Hugo spends his days giving his brain a rest from the endless reading of texts by unknown authors.

His only company is Luisa, the cleaning lady, with whom he plays cat and mouse.

To escape the sleep of reason – which creates monsters –, Hugo exercises his lyrical vein by writing, with his friend Manuel, songs about their neighbourhood.

The quiet dilettantism of our protagonist is shaken by Catarina, a young and beautiful translator who’s starting her professional life as a freelancer.

Hugo is hooked and wavers. High above, a kestrel falcon hovers.

It’s not the only bird of prey that can do it.”

CHINA, CHINA (19`) by João Pedro Rodrigues and João Rui Guerra da Mata

“China walks towards the Martim Moniz district, in Lisbon.

When she passes the children scream: “China, China!”.

China is going to fly. To escape far away at dawn. She just wants to be happy. But China drinks her own poison. She drinks it all.

Sometimes the air seems loaded with evil and the purgatory is a kindergarden.”

VIAGEM A CABO VERDE (17`) by José Miguel Ribeiro

“This is the story of a sixty day long walk in Cape Verde. No mobile phone, no watch, no plans for what to do next – only the bare essentials in the backpack. Out traveller explores the mountains, the villages, the sea, a talking tortoise, the goats, the music, the dry haze, the people of Cape Verde and an essential part of himself.”

CÂNTICO DAS CRIATURAS de Miguel Gomes (24`)

“Assis 2005: a troubadour walks the streets of St. Francis of Assisi hometown, singing and playing the Song of Brother Sun or Song of the Creatures, written by St. Francis back in the winter of 1224. Woods of Umbria, 1212: during one preaching to the birds, St. Francis suddenly faints. Reanimated by St. Clare, the saint looks strange and absent and he doesn’t remember anything. When the night falls, the animals in the forest sing and praise Francis. But this love sung by the animals leads to a feeling of possession, a desire of exclusivity usually known as jealousy.”
